DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-7 are now pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1 & 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Furukawa et al. (US 5,684,771) in view of Nakajima (EP 1187111 A2).

In regard to claim 1, Furukawa et al. disclose a recording medium type determining apparatus for determining a type of an optical disc in the reproducing state where the tracking servo control is kept open, said apparatus comprising: a signal generating section for generating a radial push-pull signal based on a read signal from a recording medium (note push-pull signal on Figure 5); a processing section for processing said radial push-pull signal by means of autocorrelation (on Figure 5, a focus sum signal is correlated with the push-pull signal); and a determining section for determining the type of said recording medium based on the data sent from said processing section (Figure 5, element 34 is a disk discriminating circuit).

However, Furukawa et al. do not explicitly disclose: in regard to claim 1, determining the type of recording medium by detecting the presence of the wobble.

Nakajima discloses: in regard to claim 1, determining the type of recording medium by detecting the presence of a wobble (abstract, lines 6-8). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention by the Applicant to have applied the teachings of

Art Unit: 2627

Nakajima to the apparatus of Furukawa et al., the motivation being to maintain compatibility between different disk types (see last three lines of abstract, and column 2, paragraph 0008).

Claim 7 has limitations similar to those of claim 1; thus, it is rejected on the same basis.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 2-6 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 & 7 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to Applicant's disclosure.

Furukawa et al. (US 2002/0172361) & Sako et al. (US 2003/0012098) are pertinent to Applicant's disclosure of distinguishing the type of disc based on the presence or absence of wobbles.

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
